

Intermediate Half Marathon Plan

The 14-week plan that took Coach Tyler's brother from casual half marathoner to a personal record — using tempo work, interval sessions, and long runs built for people who already know how to run.

WHO THIS IS FOR

You've run a half marathon. Now let's make it faster.

This plan is for runners who have already completed a half marathon and are ready to race one. You know the distance. You know the discomfort. Now you're going to learn how to push through it with a real training structure behind you.

The plan builds from easy aerobic work into tempo sessions, interval training, and race-pace long runs that teach your legs what 8:30 pace feels like when it matters.

— Base required

You should be running 15+ miles per week comfortably. This plan adds structure on top of a base you already have.

— Time commitment

5 days per week including interval sessions, tempo runs, and long runs up to 13 miles.

— Race pace (HMGP)

Half Marathon Goal Pace. This plan targets an 8:30–8:45 per mile finish. HMGP references throughout = your target race pace.

— Two deload weeks

Weeks 3 and 8 are intentional pullbacks. Don't skip them — they're built in for a reason.

THE STRUCTURE

14 weeks. Built to peak on race day.

WEEKS 1-4

Speed & Base

Tempo runs, interval work, and easy mileage. Build the aerobic engine and introduce race pace.

WEEKS 5-8

Race Pace Development

Longer tempo efforts. Mile repeats at HMGP. Long runs building confidence at pace.

WEEKS 9-11

Peak Phase

Race day simulation. 2x3 mile race pace efforts. Highest confidence builders of the plan.

WEEKS 12-13

Taper

Sharp workouts only. Volume drops hard. Legs come alive.

WEEK 14

Race Week

Three easy days then race day. Trust the work.

A NOTE FROM COACH TYLER

PRs don't happen by accident.

My brother used this plan to run a personal record at the half marathon. Not because he's some elite runner — but because he showed up every week, hit the tempo sessions when they were hard, and trusted the long run process.

The difference between your previous half and your PR is structure. Knowing what to run, how fast to run it, and why. This plan gives you all three.

If you want the plan fully customized around your schedule, your current fitness, and your specific race — that's exactly what 1-on-1 coaching is built for.
